Guylian at World Expo Shanghai 2010

As a leading international Belgian chocolate brand, Guylian will be present at World Expo Shanghai 2010, as part of the Belgian Chocolate Corner in the Belgian Pavilion. It will be the impulse to further develop Guylian's presence in Asia and have Chinese consumers discover, taste and enjoy our Belgian chocolate creations.

Established together with three other world known brands - Barry Callebaut, Godiva and Neuhaus, and in cooperation with the Royal Association of Belgian Chocolate Makers and Confectioners – the Belgian Chocolate Corner is sure to be one of the top attractions of the Expo with on-site demonstrations of Belgian Chocolatiers, free sampling and a range of fine Belgian chocolate products for sale. World Expo Shanghai 2010 aims to be the democratisation of Belgian chocolates in China.

Guylian is growing in China

Guylian has been exporting to China since 1991. Now, as one of the only Belgian chocolate brands, we are sold in many parts of China, including department stores (shop in shop concepts for example Maxmile boutique), specialty food outlets, modern trade channels, airports (For example Yantai airport, Jinan airport, Rongcheng border, ...) and even on the very popular C2C 'Taobao' websites (online shopping channel).

At the Expo Guylian will focus on its world famous Guylian Belgian Chocolate Sea Shells.
